14th CIRSIL conference

Language teaching: pedagogy and ideology

Pisa, September 24th – 25th, 2020 – Polo Congressi Le Benedettine

Piazza San Paolo a Ripa d'Arno 16

The conference aims to investigate the complex relationships between language teaching and dominant ideologies in the modern and contemporary age from a historiographical perspective. Proposals are encouraged which focus on how economic, political and social power relations, apparently foreign to linguistics and language teaching, have influenced over the centuries the creation of didactic tools, the structuring of different approaches, the teaching of minority languages, debates on teacher training, and so on.

The areas of study envisaged include the following:

- a) Lexicographical repertoires
- b) Grammars
- c) Handbooks and conversation guides
- d) Methodological approaches and glottodidactics
- e) Training and curricula for students and teachers
- f) Language norms
- g) Language varieties
- h) Language policies

Open session

The call also includes an open session on the teaching of second or foreign languages, in relation to the traditional research topics of CIRSIL.
